

The Renoma Café Gallery

The up and coming restaurant in the "Triangle d'Or" of Pa

The Renoma Café Gallery is not just a restaurant; it is a hub of social activity, part art gallery, part boutique and part fine dining establishment.

Managed by «the grandson of Alain Bernardin, founder of the Crazy Horse», Alfred Bernardin has brought a whole new lease of life to the Renoma Café Gallery.

Ideally located between the avenue George V and rue Pierre Charron, the Renoma Café Gallery offers its guests traditional French cuisine with an American twist, in a cozy, urban atmosphere, surrounded by décor featuring New York street art.
